Phosphate Fertilizers Compared in Tests

What is the best phosphate fertilizer to use on Virginia crops?

The answer to this question is the aim of some long-time tests being conducted at various places in the state by Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station.

J. A. Lutz, assistant agronomist at the main station at VPI, says that so far, triple superphosphate has been slightly superior to diammonium phosphate in virtually every test. And in one experiment at VPI, rock phosphate was decidedly inferior to triple superphosphate. When adequate amounts of nitrogen and potash were applied along with 40 pounds per acre of phosphorus, the yield of wheat from the rock phosphate was only 11.1 bushels per acre as compared to 23.8 bushels per acre from triple phosphate.

A similar experiment at Staunton showed less difference in the response of wheat to rock phosphate and triple superphosphate than that noted at Blacksburg.

Triple superphosphate and diammonium phosphate were compared on alfalfa at Blacksburg. The diammonium prosphate produced 82 per cent as much alfalfa as did the triple phosphate. Triple superphosphate also was better than diammonium phosphate in one test with corn on Cecil soil.

In a test at Staunton, triple superphosphate was slightly superior to diammonium phosphate with each crop in a rotation of wheat, red clover, and corn, Diammonium phosphate produced 92 per cent as much wheat, 90 per cent as much red clover, and 97 per cent as much corn as did the triple superphosphate.

In Fashion Now

American women, as a group, are the best dressed women in the world. Of course, this mainly due to the prosperity found in this country, but the good sense and good taste of American women have had a hand in making this true.

Women in this country, on the whole, want their dollar's worth. Because of this, there are good looking, well-made clothes available in almost all price groups.

Coats, dresses, shoes, lingerie and accessories that are sound fashion and sound investments are seen in stores all over the country.

We are less prone to wear a design that is a fad or "in style" at the moment than the women of other countries. Right after the second World War, we went overboard for the new look. The exaggerated length of skirts was accepted.

Looking back, the reason for this seems to be that women were so tired of the unattractive short skirts made necessary by shortage of material, they were happy for a complete change.

However, since that time women have stayed on an even keel.

Fashion magazines are a big help. If not followed too closely, a fashion magazine makes a fine guide.

FHA PROGRAMS FOR FARMER CREDIT

To raise the values of their farms and increase their incomes, a number of Appomattox County farmers can now think in terms of better soil conservation practices, permanent pasture improvement, development and use of farm water supplies, irrigation and good drainage.

The Farmers Home Administration has a loan program to help eligible farmers carry out these practices, reports Hunter P. Evans, County FHA Supervisor.

The making of soil and water conservation loans to farmers who are eligible is one of the functions of the agency's county office, located at Farmville.

Each county has a three - member County Committee, and one of its duties is to determine whether or not an applicant is eligible for a loan. To be eligible, the applicant must be a farm owner or operator, with necessary experience, whose credit requirements for soil and water conservation improvements cannot be supplied through private or cooperative sources.

4 Collegians Named For Top Honors Award Trip to Chicago Congress

Four collegians will soon reap the rewards of being Virginia 4-H's best in their respective fields. They have won all-expense trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Nov. 29-Dec.3. The youthful delegates will be eligible for national honors to be announced in Chicago, reports the Virginia Polytechnic Institute Extension office.

Winifred Lee M. Fletcher Garland Craun Nancy Lee

Winifred Ann Lee, 19, of Appomattox presented 2,296 quarts of food to win the 55th state 4-H canning achievement award.

Miss Lee, who has held almost every office in the Hebron Community 4-H Club, has participated in nearly all 4-H projects. She's won 195 ribbons for her efforts and enough prize money to completely remodel her bedroom.

A sophomore at Madison college, her trip is provided by the Kerr Glass Manufacturing Co., long-time backer of 4-H youth.

* * *

Holstein specialist Margaret Fletcher captured the state dairy trip. The 18-year-old Oakton 4-H'er bought her first purebred heifer in 1951 and since has enlarged the herd to 15 animals valued at $4,500. She has won cash prizes totaling $1,220 plus 232 ribbons and six championships.

The honor graduate of Herndon High School is now enrolled in Mary Washington College where she is majoring in elementary education. Her trip is given by the Oliver Corporation, donor of awards in the 4-H dairy program.

* * *

Nineteen-year-old Garland Craun, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Craun, of Roanoke, is state swine project champion.

His swine are farrowed in modern infra-red heated "nursery" quarters. Special rails protect the piglets when their mothers lie down, and adjustable farrowing crates for extra large sows allow no lying down on the job of nothering. Other safety devices keep new-born pigletsfrom being trampled, reports 4-H'er Craun.

Forty blue ribbons won for livestock projects are climaxed by Craun's trip provided by Moormun Manufacturing Co.

The Greenridge 4-H Club member is following in the footsteps of his father. The elder Craun himself a former top 4-H'er, is a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, where his son is enrolled. Last year the Crauns were honored as "master farm family."

* * *

Nancy Lee, 18, daughter of Col. W. A. Lee, Ret. USMC, Quantico, won the 4-H food preparation trip provided by Betty Crocker of General Mills.

A past president of her 4-H Honor Club, Miss Lee has held several posts in the Quantico and Dumfries 4-H groups. Her list of 4-H awards fills two typewritten pages.

Recipes from abroad collected by her late mother and her older sister provide inspiration, says Miss Lee, for her culinary pursuits. Cooking and sewing for her father and young sister she views as creative outlets as well as responsibilities. Miss Lee now is enrolled in Madison College.
